

Dumfries TUC presents

CELEBRATING DIVERSITY IN DUMFRIES & GALLOWAY

SATURDAY 25 APRIL
10AM TO 4PM

A free live theatre, film and music event

Extreme right-wing ideas and organisations are gaining ground across Europe, including Britain, using false arguments to blame immigrants, refugees and asylum seekers for the economic problems we face, like falling living standards and austerity cutbacks.

ELECTRIC THEATRE WORKSHOP
28 Munches St
Dumfries DG1 1ET

THE STOVE
100 High St
Dumfries DG1 2BJ

Dumfries Trades Union Council (TUC) is concerned about the spread of these ideas and wants to show how people coming to live and work in Dumfries & Galloway from overseas actually enriches our lives.

YES TO DIVERSITY
NO TO RACISM

Supporters include:

Dumfries TUC | Dumfries & Galloway Council | D&G Multicultural Association | Unite the Union
Show Racism the Red Card | The Educational Institute of Scotland | Electric Theatre Workshop
The Stove | Unison | Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers & Firemen | Unite Against Fascism
Scottish Prison Service | National Union of Rail, Maritime & Transport Workers

CELEBRATING DIVERSITY IN DUMFRIES & GALLOWAY

click for more

Design
Josh Carlisle
Print
Solway Print

On Saturday 25th April – from 10am to 4pm – Dumfries Trades Union Council (TUC) is sponsoring a day of cultural activity in Dumfries town centre – at the Electric Theatre Workshop in Munches Street and at The Stove in High Street – with a combination of live music, film, theatre performance and visual art.

The event is free and anyone can come along to this intriguing and unusual day of art, theatre and music from many nations and cultures.

- Banner Theatre's 1st of May Band will play music and songs celebrating diversity and telling the stories of migrants and refugees.
- The Glasgow Girls and other campaigners will show film clips and describe how they battled with the immigration authorities and won.
- Electric Theatre Workshop will revive and perform an extract from their standout Edinburgh Fringe production, Blood Orange.
- The Stove will be hosting an exhibition of material about the successful music-based anti-racist campaign, Rock Against Racism.
- The Razorbills will offer a musical perspective on social issues in Dumfries & Galloway and further afield.
- Films about diversity, solidarity and the use of culture in campaigning will feature throughout the day at both the Electric Theatre Workshop and The Stove.
- Entries for an anti-racist poster competition for schools and young people will be on display at the Electric Theatre Workshop.

A free live theatre, film and music event

Note: Whilst the day will run from 10am to 4pm, most items will be repeated, so audience members can stay for as long or as little as they like.

For more information ring - 0789 044 4650